Dear

On October 7, 2014, a class action lawsuit was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court against the defendant skilled nursing facilities and related parties listed below. The case was later re-filed as a class arbitration with Judicial Arbitration & Mediation Services (JAMS) in Orange, California. The short name of the case is Foreman v. Shlomo Rechnitz, et al., JAMS Reference No. 1220052954.

The lawsuit alleges that Mr. Rechnitz, Brius Management, and/or their various subsidiary facilities listed below, violated the provisions of the California Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Unfair Competition Law, and Health & Safety Code §1430(b) relating to resident rights and resident care in their facilities. Each of the Defendants deny the allegations of the lawsuit.

The Defendants' records indicate that you, or perhaps one for whom you were the responsible party, was a resident in one of named facilities at some point between October 7, 2014 and the present. As a potential class action you may qualify as a member of the class and/or have your rights effected by the lawsuit.

The Arbitrator has now directed that you be sent this notice so that you can decide whether to authorize the Defendants to disclose your personal contact information to the plaintiffs' attorney. It is the desire of the Arbitrator, all counsel, and the parties to be respectful of your privacy rights. To that end, if you agree that counsel for the putative class may be provided with your name, last known address and telephone number, please check the box on the enclosed form and return it via the self-addressed stamped envelope which is enclosed herein for your convenience. Should you prefer, you are also free to contact counsel for the Plaintiffs and/or the Defendants directly at the addresses and telephone numbers listed below:
